2.1. Membership categories

2.1.1. National Associations membership: national associations are deemed to be any association, legally established, with a minimum of ten members (individual or legal entities), concerned with the defence of the interests of risk managers or buyers of insurance or associated value-added solutions or services ("insurance managers") operating within the national boundary of a European country. National associations are voting members.

2.1.2. Individual membership: a person domiciled in a country where there is no national association of Risk and/or Insurance managers member of FERMA who is solely employed by an organisation to plan and/or oversee the management of risks and insurances of that organisation. Individual members have no voting rights.

2.1.3. Corporate membership: an organisation domiciled in a country where there is no national association of Risk or Insurance managers member of FERMA, with insurable interests in Europe and employing a risk or insurance manager, excluding insurance and reinsurance companies and brokerage firms. Corporate members have no voting rights.

2.1.4. Honorary membership: The Board of Directors may admit as honorary member an individual person who has rendered outstanding services for the benefit of Ferma. Honorary members have no voting rights

2.2. Membership fees

2.2.1. Members pay a membership fee proposed annually by the Board of Directors and accepted by the General Assembly.

2.2.2. For national associations, the fee applies to the number of active risk or insurance managers in the national association,

2.2.3. Membership fees are waived for honorary members.

2.3. New members

2.3.1. The Board of Directors decides upon admission of a new member following the review of a written application of the candidate or for honorary members upon the proposal of a Director.

2.3.2. Application for membership of a national association must be accompanied by a copy of the articles of constitution of the association, a list of members and Board members (as applicable) and a short report enabling the Board of the Association to understand fully the nature, size and representative capacity of the applicant.

2.3.3. If an application is denied membership by the Board, the applicant has the right to appeal against such decision at the next General Assembly which will decide when three-quarters of the votes of the members present and/or represented are cast for the same outcome.

2.4. Members Governance

2.4.1. To maintain its membership, a member must justify at all times to meet the initial requirements for its admission. Any member must inform without delay the Board of Directors of the loss of one of those.

2.4.2. A member may at any time by written notification to the Board of Directors, resign from the Association.

2.4.3. Members who fail to pay their membership dues as stated in 2.2 during two consecutive years shall lose, upon decision of the Board, their status of members of the Association.

2.4.4. Members who act against the objectives or interests of the Association can have their membership revoked by decision of the General Assembly taken by a majority of three-quarters.

2.4.5. Before its revocation, the member will have the possibility to be heard by the General Assembly.

2.4.6. Resigning members or members who cease to belong to the Association for whatsoever reason shall have no claim to the contribution paid and shall not assert any claim to the patrimony of the Association.
